WHY KILL THE BILL?

Asks Rev. W. E. Braisted About the Local Option Suffrage of Women.

Editor Barre Daily Times: Will you, in the interests of simple fairness, for every question has two sides, permit a word as to that "Bill to be killed" yesterday? And why "to be killed," please? Has the bill been proved guilty of murder or treason? Perhaps it might be guilty of killing the liquor business and even disloyalty to the control of the liquor interests. But even that has not been proved.

But now, suppose the legislators were really awake, and not a large majority of them asleep, as you insinuate. Of course any man, even an editor or a preacher, has an unquestioned privilege to "wake the legislators up," but, really, suppose they were only thinking very hard when you thought them asleep!

Suppose they were thinking of their own children and the peril to them of any form of the legalized liquor business? Suppose they were thinking of the official reports that more than 75 per cent of the crime, more than 65 per cent of the poverty, and more than 55 per cent of the insanity, as reported by Carol D. Wright for the legislature of Massachusetts, were directly due to the liquor business? And, suppose, again, that our legislators felt that if the wives and mothers, who love them and their darlings, wanted to help wipe out the "destroyers" of love, and life, and home, and honor, they ought to have the right to do so? Just suppose they were awake, and were actuated by noble, high impulses?

Now, Mr. Editor, why not give the public the one and sole reason why "kill the bill"? The liquor interests dare not trust their accused business for one minute in the hands—the ballot—of the wives and mothers, united with the growing number of fathers and husbands who are awakening to the fact that here is a business producing no good, and a great deal of positive harm.

Our legislators "represent" many opposing forces. And here's to them, the fervent prayer that the God of wisdom and power will give each one to see the light in the interests of the largest number and the greatest good of all, and have the moral courage to act on that deep, true conviction. Gentlemen of the legislature, vote for this bill, if you, conscientiously, can do so. Another whom you "represent," William E. Braisted.

Annetta, the queen of mystery, and Prof. LeRoy were certainly a feature at Dreamland last night and brought some very startling surprises in escapees from chains, handcuffs and straight-jackets, which were much appreciated by the large crowd which saw them. The special features were the escaping of Annetta from the Rhode Island state asylum straightjacket in one minute and eight seconds and of Prof. LeRoy in escaping from the Vermont state asylum straightjacket in one minute and forty seconds. They can be seen to-day and to-morrow in many new escapes, which will mystify all. The feature picture for to-day is "The Message of the Violin." It's a Biography and is sure to be a dandy. There are also three other feature pictures, making in all one of the biggest five-cent's worth ever seen in Barre. All this is at Dreamland.
